Richard A. Levao
Office of the President

Members of the Class of 2004:

If your experience is anything like mine, you will read over skip, this letter when you first get this yearbook. You will read it time, perhaps 25 years later, when nostalgia will lead you to look at classmates while you play the "where are they now" game, or the (she) has changed" game.

By that time I will be in my early 80s and the world will be a place from today. What technological miracles might have occurred in the last 25 years so many changes have been realized. Some of the dreadful political events. In 1979, no one could have imagined portable cell phones, or, tragically, a bloody terrorist attack on Washington, DC.

When you do read this in 25 years, one thing is clear: the world is much different from what it is today. Job categories now seem commonplace. Political alliances and world affairs unite in the news. Things that seem absolutely critical to you today are completely forgotten.

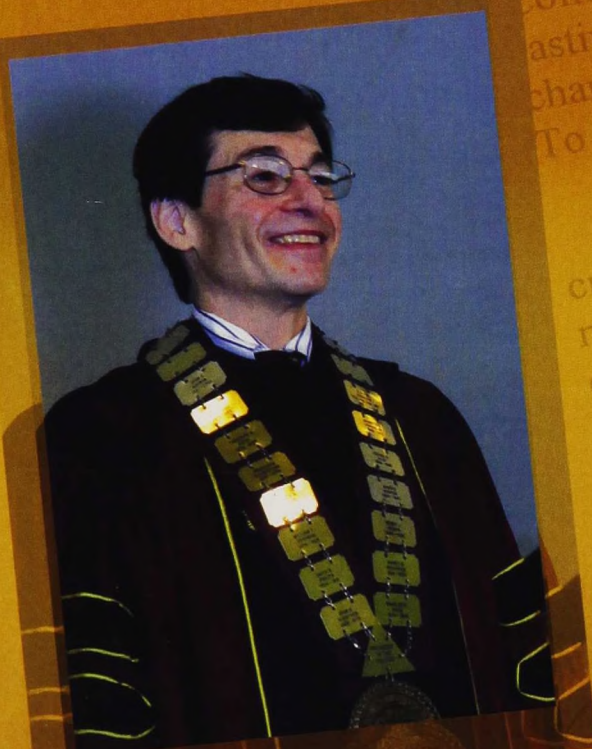

How well you are prepared for that world is what Bloomfield College is all about. You may have learned job skills, but the lasting value is the capacity to change. To be ready for change. To be intellectually adventurous and self-motivated. To derive pleasure and stimulation from the challenges of life.

Almost every successful person I ever met has creativity, energy and enthusiasm. The education is not as a burden, rewarded with a degree for you to deplete. It grows stronger and more valuable with time.

I am proud to have played some small part in your life right in 25 years.

Very truly yours,

Richard A. Levao

Members of the Class of 2004:

If your experience is anything like mine, you will read over quickly, or even skip, this letter when you first get this yearbook. You will read it carefully for the first time, perhaps 25 years later, when nostalgia will lead you to look at old photographs of classmates while you play the "where are they now?" game, or the "wow, how he (or she) has changed!" game.

By that time I will be in my early 80s and the world will be a very different place from today. What technological miracles might have occurred by that date? In the last 25 years so many changes have been realized. Some wonderful advances, some dreadful political events. In 1979, no one could have imagined laptop computers, portable cell phones, or, tragically, a bloody terrorist attack on New York City and Washington, DC.

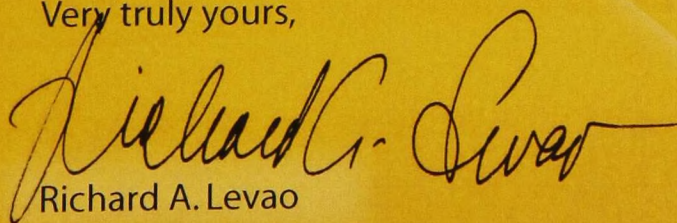

When you do read this in 25 years, one thing is certain, the world will be much different from what it is today. Job categories now unknown will be commonplace. Political alliances and world affairs unimaginable today will be old news. Things that seem absolutely critical to you today will be dim memories or completely forgotten.

How well you are prepared for that world is what your education at Bloomfield College is all about. You may have learned job skills of many kinds, but what has lasting value is the capacity to change. To be ready to embrace and profit from change. To be intellectually adventurous and self-confident in the face of that change. To derive pleasure and stimulation from the challenge.

Almost every successful person I ever met faced his or her future with creativity, energy and enthusiasm. The education you received here should be viewed, not as a burden, rewarded with a degree for your trouble, but an asset that will never deplete. It grows stronger and more valuable with use.

I am proud to have played some small role in that, and hope you will prove me right in 25 years.

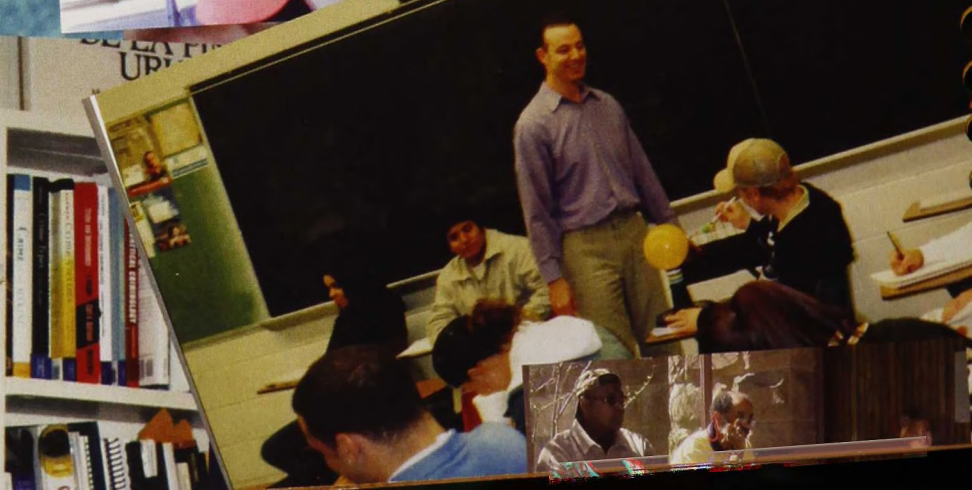

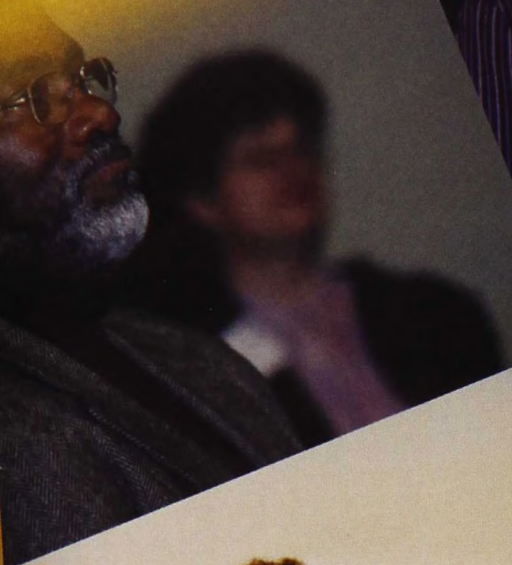

Very truly yours,

Richard A. Levao

After dropping out of college 31 years ago I made a decision to come to Bloomfield College to try and make my life long dream a reality. I majored in Psychology and hoped one day I could help people. I have learned to appreciate the gift of books & the teachers who have inspired me on this quest of fulfilling my dream. I want to thank God for his wisdom his grace, his mercy and guidance. I thank my mother who has been the rock in my life, who has always believed in me when I did not believe in myself. I thank my family and friends who all have loved me unconditionally. Thank you Bloomfield College, dreams can come true.

Bloomfield College has taught many lessons; the most important was how to be a strong African American woman. Some professors were great, others extraordinary. I'd like to take his time to thank a few people who encouraged me along the way, Professor Gloria Brown, MSU, Aunt Karen (RIP), Grandma Cathy (RIP), without the encouragement of these three I wouldn't be where I am today. Thank you!

Obtaining my degree at B.C. has afforded me the chance to have a career as an educator. In addition, by completing my education, my goal of having a degree is finally achieved; a quest that began in 1985. Thus, proving anything is possible with determination and perseverance. First, I would like to thank my sister Donna for reminding me on a daily basis what a college degree really means. I would also like to thank my husband Ron, and son Quentin for their understanding, for all the nights of sandwiches and take out, and having the house in disarray while I was studying. Finally, I would like to thank my Mom and Dad for all their love, support, and guidance. It's because they taught me the meaning of responsibility, commitment, dedication, and perseverance, that I am now a college graduate. I will forever be grateful.

For all the hard work and persistence that I have dedicated to my field of interest, I must say that I have come a long way. Impressed and satisfied with the knowledge that my professors and mentors have given me, I know that my dreams in becoming a successful designer are at hand. My greatest gratitude goes to my Father Horace Elcock for his love and assistance towards my family as I finally reached one of my goals in life. To my husband your love, support, patience and motivation was all that I needed to get this far. Words can not even express how much I am grateful. Through the late nights and weekends not home, my son, you still stood at the door waiting for me with a smile. I love you so much. Now, to My Creator, even if this is not a perfected world, I am in love with your mercy and grace that I can see each day again that you've made. You are awesome.

It's been a challenge I couldn't have overcome without the support of my family and daily inspiration from my children, Ayanna and Nia. I dedicate this achievement to my seventh-grade teacher, Mrs. D. Welch (Alexander Street School, Newark); her example greatly influenced my decision to enter into a career in Education. I plan to teach secondary English, develop and educational program for School of Martial Arts and Fitness' youth program (Maryland) and write books.

I am graduating from Bloomfield College with a degree in Mathematics. Not only have I learned so much through my education but college has also taught me a lot about life and friendship. I feel that I have grown in so many ways and for that I would like to thank my true friends and professors for their support, and most of all, my family for their endless dedication and their love.

This is one of the final stops on my long journey. BC is the third college I have had the pleasure of attending. The staff here is excellent and caring, a rare combination at any educational facility. Activities / Awards: Dean's List (several times), Recipient of the BestFoods Educational Foundation (twice), Member of National Association for Female Executives. Transferring here was not intimidating. Everyone went out of their way to help. I want to thank everyone who allowed me to excel: the creator, my family, of course, and the staff. I will cherish these memories, always.

Dear 2004 Memory Book Committee Members, Faculty, & Graduates:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to all committee members as well as the faculty. Additionally, I would like to express my best wishes to all our graduates:

To the committee:

It was obvious this project was going to be a challenge since the beginning. A challenge that would only grow as the days passed and the end of the semester, with all its demands from finals and hectic scheduling, grew closer. Yet, this group has proven to be strong in character and work ethics. It is your work and strengths that are represented in these pages, thank you for lending your time, efforts, and talent to this project.

To the faculty:

This Memory Book represents a true collaboration between faculty and students. There is nothing more disconcerting than leaving the responsibility of such an undertaking to students without micromanaging-thank you for trusting in us - guiding us while letting us run free.

To the graduate:

Our first and only goal throughout the creation of this book was to illustrate a true representation of your experience while in Bloomfield. We always looked at this project as our gift to you, the graduate. We sincerely hope that when you open this book again while reminiscing that you are that much closer to completing all of your dreams.

After countless sleepless nights, coffee-driven days, and final-filled weeks remembered in shadowy haze you have earned your degree-your first key to unlocking a dream. Congratulations.

Sincerely,

Venessa Perez
